5. Why is there a cost for services if I'm enrolled in the Advantage+ health plan (high-deductible health plan)?

6. How can I learn more about Primary Care+ clinic providers?

You can learn about your care team, which will consist of primary care doctors and nurses, mental health therapists, and more, online. Go to boeingprimarycare.com and access One Medical's clinic partner website for information about their providers and services.

7. Do Primary Care+ clinics replace my Boeing-sponsored medical plan option?

No, Primary Care+ clinics are simply additional health care providers available to you under your Boeing-sponsored medical plan option. You can continue to use any providers available in your medical plan option's network. There is no obligation to use a Primary Care+ clinic provider. The clinics can be used to complement your current health care experience.

8. What is the difference between the types of primary care providers in a clinic? Shouldn't I always be treated by a doctor?

There are many types of providers who are highly qualified to deliver primary care. The most familiar are the Medical Doctor (MD) and Doctor of Osteopathy (DO). Over the past decade, however, there have been significant advances in education and hands-on training that have resulted in new classifications of primary care providers, such as Nurse Practitioners (NPs) and Physician Assistants (PAs). These individuals are highly educated, trained using standardized curriculum, and have established competencies for licensing and/or board certification to practice comprehensive primary care. All clinic providers meet daily to review patient care needs and protocols, in addition to meeting continuing education requirements of their licensure.
